

Thank you AJHPE reviewers, 2024 – 2025

Peer review is central to advancing health professions education scholarship.

It is through the thoughtful, rigorous, and collegial engagement of peer reviewers that manuscripts are critically examined, strengthened, and refined. This process ensures that published work is not only methodologically sound but also theoretically informed, contextually relevant, and meaningful for educators, institutions, and health systems.

For AJHPE, peer review plays a particularly important role. As a journal committed to advancing health professions education in Africa and other resource-constrained contexts, peer reviewers help ensure that scholarship is both globally informed and locally responsive. Their insights support the development of educational research that speaks to real-world teaching and learning challenges, while contributing to broader scholarly conversations in the field.

The AJHPE relies on the voluntary service of its peer reviewers, whose expertise, time, and scholarly generosity underpin the quality, credibility, and integrity of the journal. Reviewers not only evaluate manuscripts but also mentor authors through constructive feedback, helping to develop emerging scholars and strengthen the overall standard of submissions.

We recognise that peer review is demanding and often invisible academic labour. In an environment of increasing submission volumes and competing professional commitments, the sustained contribution of reviewers reflects a deep commitment to the scholarly community and academic service. AJHPE strives to honour this contribution by promoting fair, timely, and developmental peer-review processes.

In special recognition of Peer Review Week, we extend our sincere thanks to all reviewers who contributed to AJHPE during 2024 - 2025. Your careful evaluations, critical insights, and commitment to academic excellence have been essential to the journal's success and ongoing growth.

We are particularly grateful to those reviewers who have provided multiple reviews during this period, demonstrating exceptional commitment to the journal and to the advancement of health professions education scholarship.

With our heartfelt appreciation, we thank you for your invaluable service to AJHPE and the broader scholarly community.
